

THE "MACKINTOSH" BORING AND PROSPECTING TOOL

Patent No. 202342

This is the lightest, cheapest and most compact boring rig for putting down holes in alluvial ground and the like up to the hardness of solid chalk, and taking core samples from all but the hardest rocks. The "Mackintosh" Boring and Prospecting tool weighs but 50 lbs. and can easily be carried and manipulated by one man. With it 20 holes of 20 to 30 ft. can be put down in one day. A core sample of the ground may be brought up from any desired depth, besides which samples of water from any particular stratum may be obtained without fear of contamination by water from other levels.

By the use of this simple tool both time and labour are saved, and heavy equipment is rendered unnecessary.
